

From zero we begin....

NO Im here/

AllArtNow was initiated as a reaction to a series of different limitations for artists and cultural production in Syria.

Fragmented cultural ecology, from education to production to distribution

Art education do not extend to contemporary art and practices

Under-appreciation of new media and new technologies in fine art training/education arts

Lack of professional and training in arts management, curation and production

Lack of spaces to create , research (e. g. libraries) and exhibit work
Being an artist is not an accepted profession

Negative images about arts generally in Syria

Yes

Buyon

In the face of all these problems, something positive made us move on:

In Syria, we have enthusiastic artists who insist to work in art, in spite of all the difficulties they have found and they are working hard to learn more about arts and to improve their skills

So we decided to begin from Zero, maybe some day, our work will encourage other groups to take the same way

We were only 2 persons who established this initiative and one means of financial support

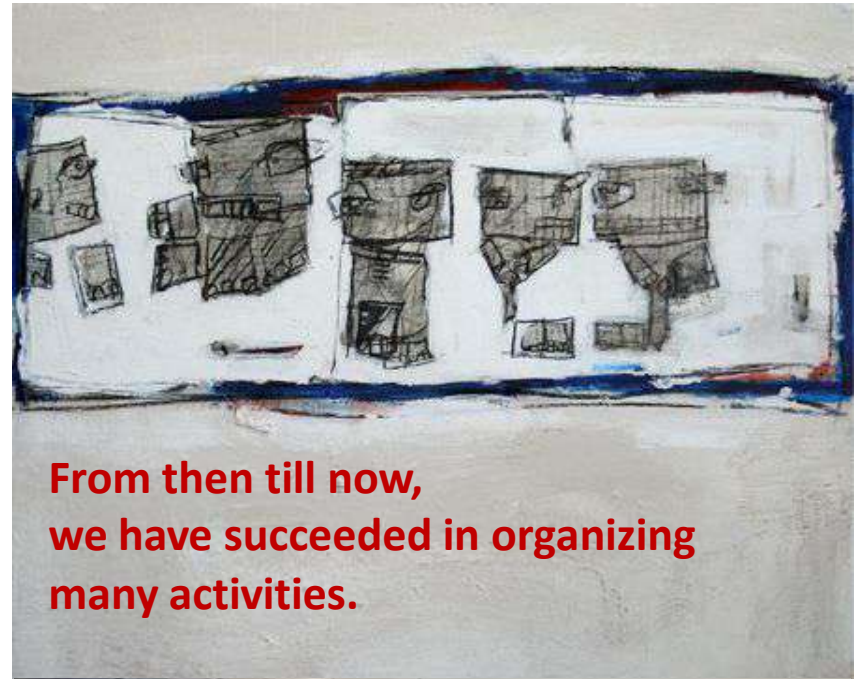

Independently, we organized our first activity, where we participated in 14th

One of our activities...
Develop the traditional arts.

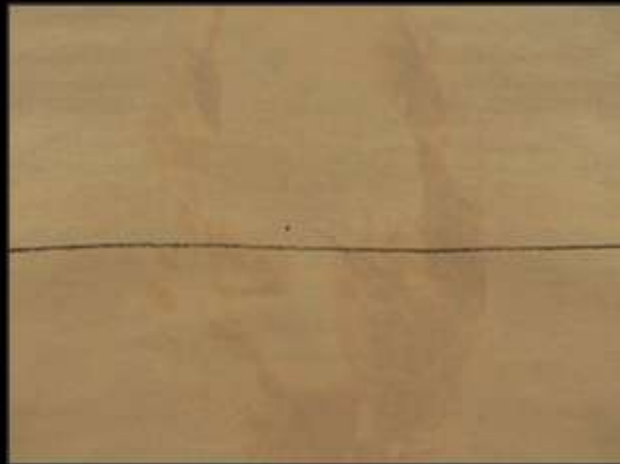

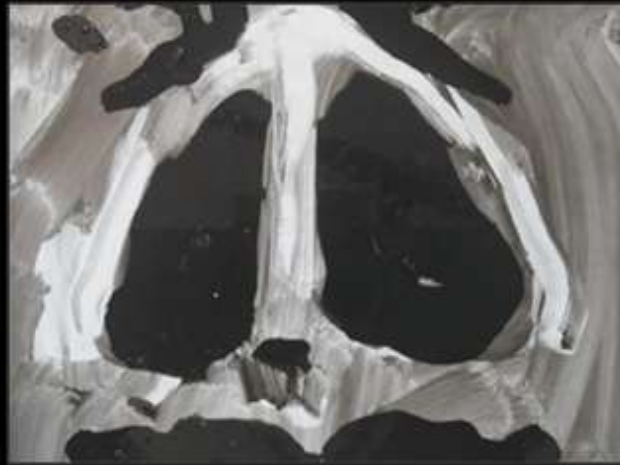

Project after project convinced us of the benefits in developing our skills and providing the right opportunities for artists to flourish.

We have succeeded in encouraging artists to work in a contemporary way.

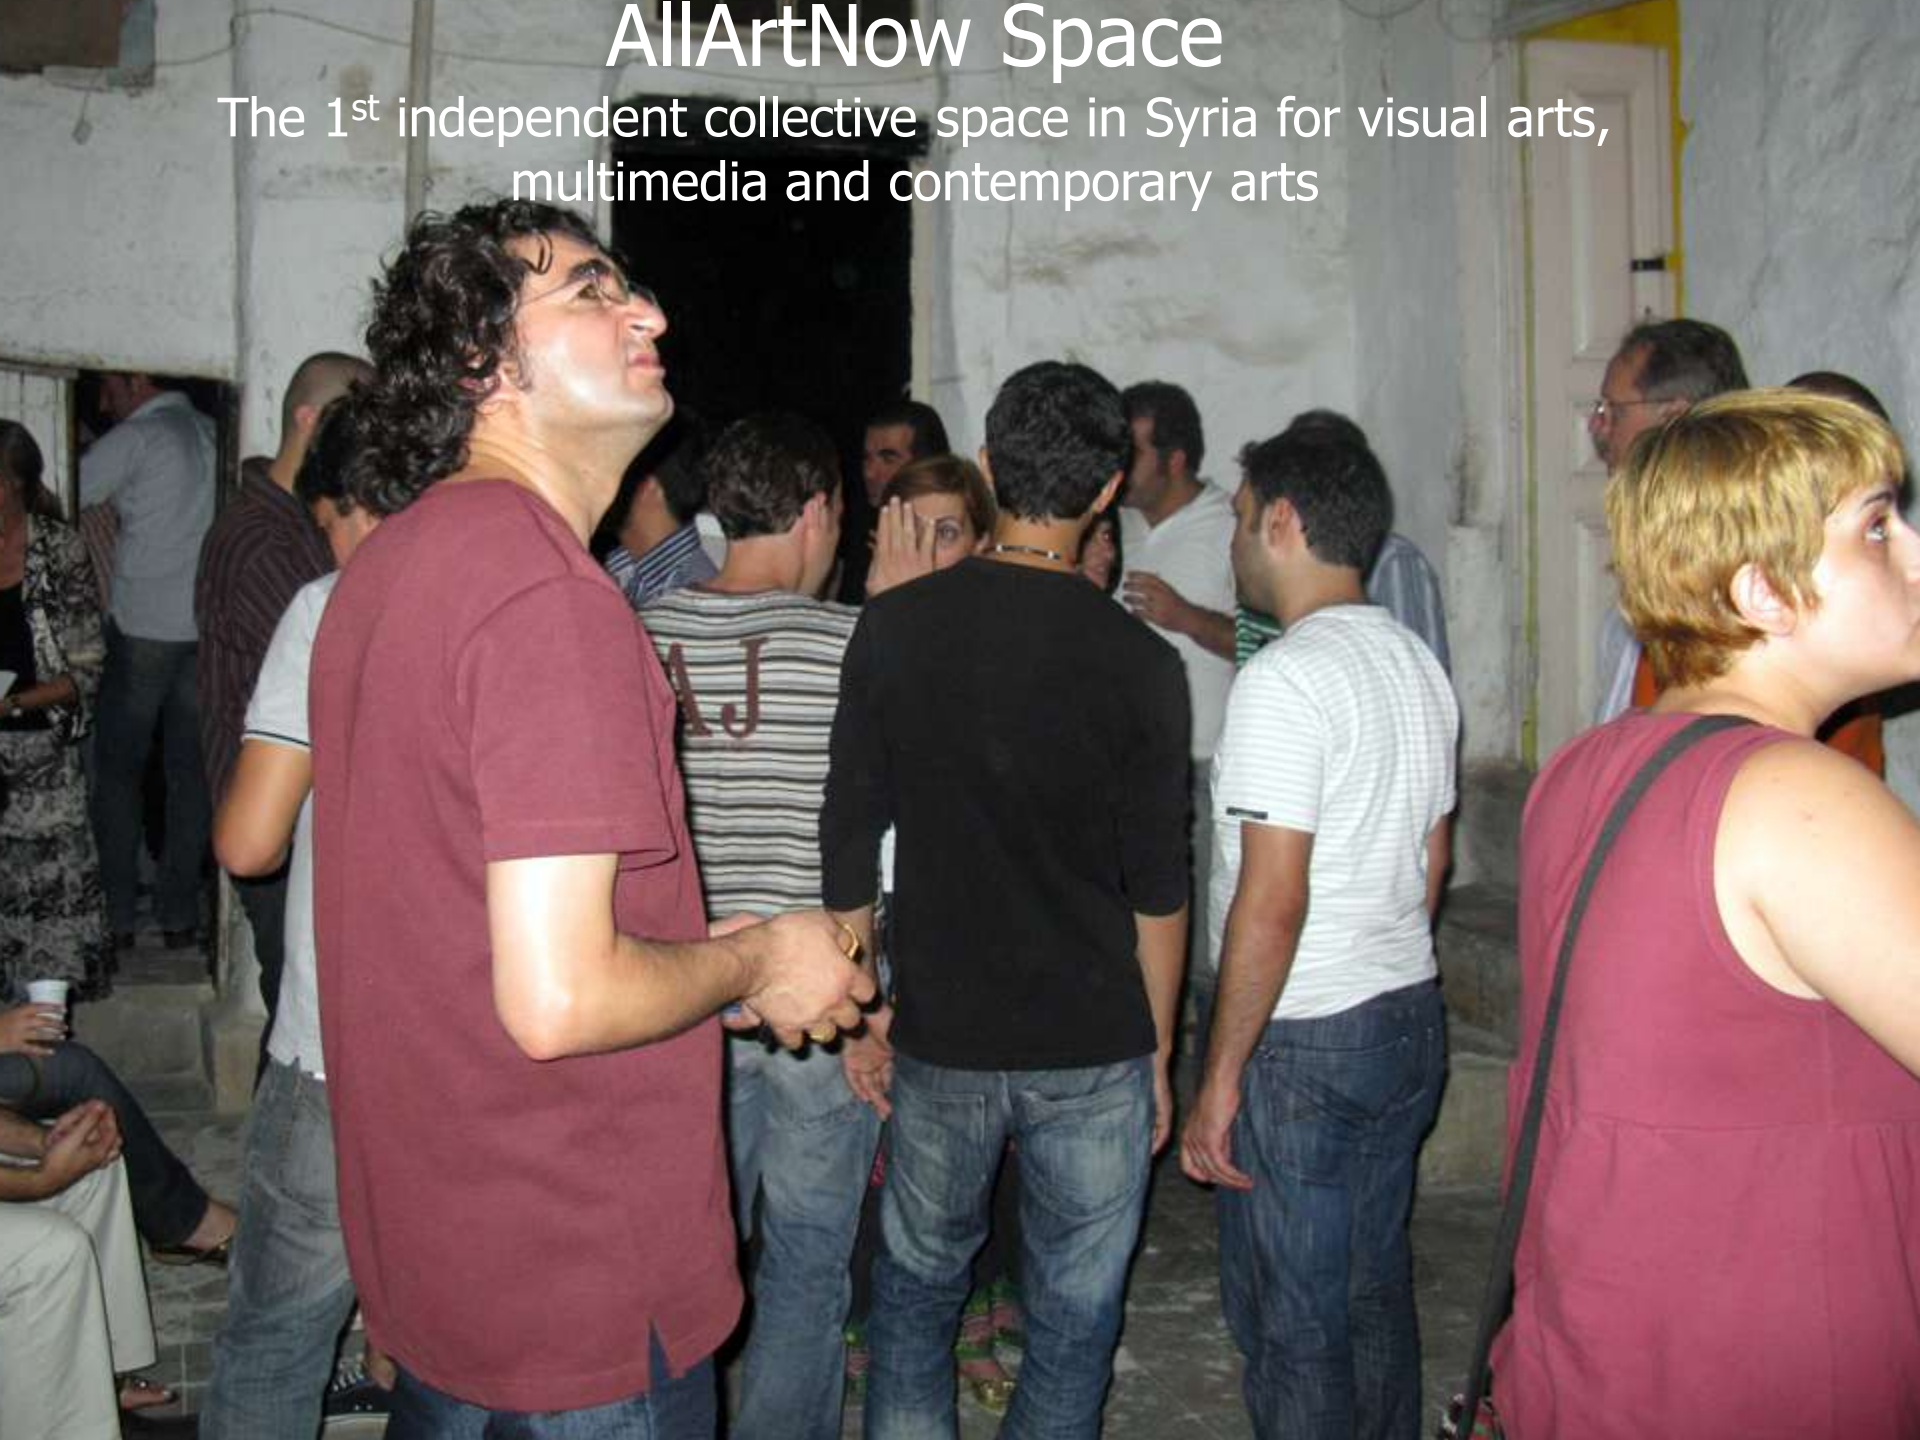

As a result of our program, some of our artists have participated in many international festivals and workshops - and have begun to explore new media such as video art.

We believe that by working with others, in partnership, we can improve the ecology of the arts.

We aim to continue developing new collaborative approaches with organizations in & out of Syria.

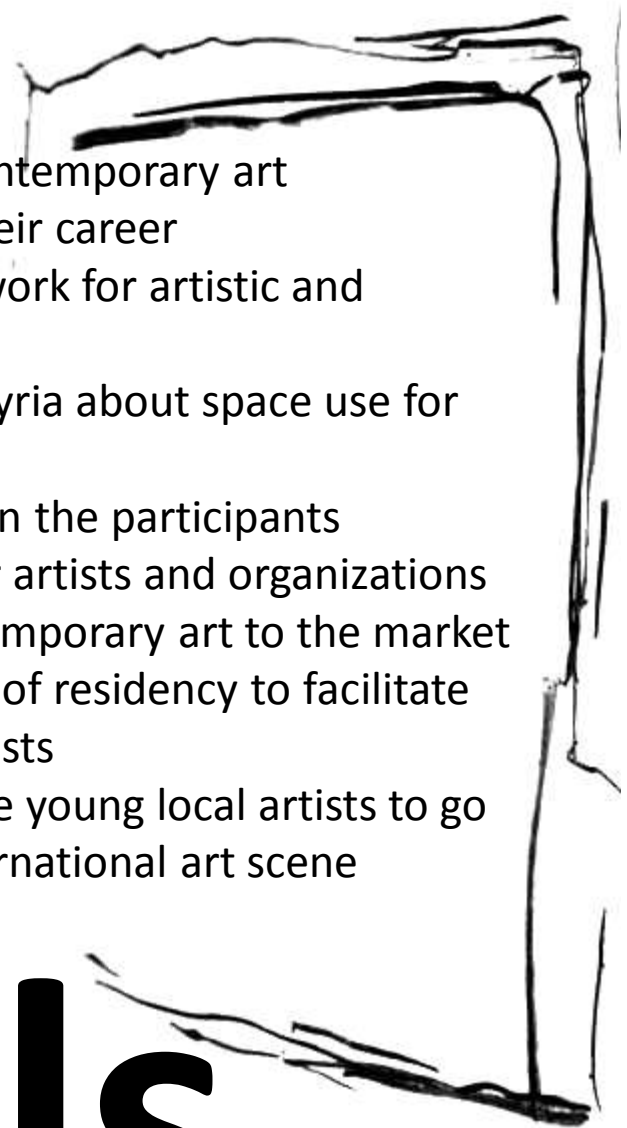

By doing this, we aspire to create opportunities for artists, from training to residencies to exhibitions, and for audiences, from participation to exchange.

Our

- Create art center to the contemporary art
- Support young artists in their career
- enlarge inter-regional network for artistic and cultural dialogue
- Create new viewpoint in Syria about space use for art
- Create new visions between the participants
- exchange ideas with other artists and organizations
- Introduce the Syrian Contemporary art to the market
- Create a permanent space of residency to facilitate international mobility of artists
- Create opportunities for the young local artists to go abroad and explore the international art scene
